Veterans Affairs Secretary Tom Johnson Announces Link to National Resource Directory on CalVet Website

Secretary of the California Department of Veterans Affairs Tom Johnson today announced that the National Resource Directory, a web-based "yellow book" for wounded, ill and injured service members, veterans, their families and families of the fallen and those who support them, is now available on CalVet's website at the following link: www.calvet.ca.gov.

The National Resource Directory, developed by the U.S. Departments of Defense, Labor and Veterans Affairs provides information on more than 10,000 services and resources available through governmental and non-governmental organizations. This plethora of organizations currently provides support for recovery, rehabilitation and reintegration into the community for wounded, ill and injured service members. It will compliment the extensive list of resources already available on CalVet's website, said Johnson.

The National Resource Directory also provides information to veterans, their families, families of the fallen and those who support them with a web-based directory of valuable resources.

"With thousands of service men and women coming back to California every month, this resource directory will be a valuable tool for their families, friends and those who want to help make their transition back into civilian life that much easier," Johnson said.

The Directory delivers information on, and access to, the full range of medical and non-medical services and resources needed to achieve their personal and professional goals across the transitions from recovery to rehabilitation to community reintegration.

This online partnership links to the services and resources of federal, state and local governmental agencies; veterans service and benefit organizations; non-profit community-based and faith-based organizations; and academic institutions, professional associations and philanthropic organizations.
